“If They Come for Your Guns, Do You Have a Responsibility to Fight?”

Posted on January 3, 2013 by Dean Garrison

I feel a tremendous responsibility to write this article, though I am a little apprehensive. Thinking about the possibility of rising up against our own government is a frightening thing for many of us. I am not Johnny Rambo and I will be the first to admit that I do not want to die. The reason I feel compelled to write this, however, is simply because I don't think the average American is equipped with the facts. I feel that a lot of American citizens feel like they have no choice but to surrender their guns if the government comes for them. I blame traditional media sources for this mass brainwash and I carry the responsibility of all small independent bloggers to tell the truth. So my focus today is to lay out your constitutional rights as an American, and let you decide what to do with those rights.

About a month ago I let the “democracy” word slip in a discussion with a fellow blogger. I know better. Americans have been conditioned to use this term. It's not an accurate term and it never has been a correct term to describe our form of government. The truth is that the United States of America is a constitutional republic. This is similar to a democracy because our representatives are selected by democratic elections, but ultimately our representatives are required to work within the framework of our Constitution. In other words, even if 90% of Americans want something that goes against our founding principles, they have no right to call for a violation of constitutional rights.

If you are religious you might choose to think of it this way... Say that members of your congregation decide that mass fornication is a good thing. Do they have the right to change the teachings of your God? The truth is the truth. It doesn't matter how many people try to stray from it. Did I just compare our founders to God? In a way I did, but please note that I am not trying to insult anyone. For the purpose of the American government, our Constitution and the founders who wrote it are much like God is to believers. It is the law. It is indisputable.

Our founders did not want a “democracy” for they feared a true democracy was just as dangerous as a monarchy. The founders were highly educated people who were experienced in defending themselves against tyranny. They understood that the Constitution could protect the people by limiting the power of anyone to work outside of it much better than a pure system of popularity. A system of checks and balances was set up to help limit corruption of government and also the potential for an “immoral majority” developing within the American People. We have forgotten in this country that we are ultimately ruled by a Constitution.

Why is a democracy potentially just as dangerous as a monarchy? Let's look at something that Benjamin Franklin said because it answers that question more fully and succinctly than I can.

“Democracy is two wolves and a lamb voting on what to have for lunch. Liberty is a well-armed lamb contesting the vote.”

-Benjamin Franklin

Even 230+ years ago our founders were perceptive enough to realize that democracy was a dangerous form of government. How so? Because the citizens of a country can become just as corrupt as any government. We have seen evidence of this throughout history. Ask Native Americans and African-Americans if this population can become corrupt.

I think in 2012 we are seeing evidence of what Franklin was trying to tell us. Just because a majority of people may support certain ideas it does not mean that those ideas are just. In simple terms, just because most Americans love our president and voted for him, it does not mean that he has the power to go against our constitutional rights.

Next I'd like to review the text of the Second Amendment. It is very clear. This is the law of this land. So when Senator Feinstein or President Obama talk about taking your guns, you need to think about something. Are they honoring their sworn oath to uphold the Constitution?

A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.

This is a pretty clear statement. The fact is that it took 232 years for the Supreme Court to even rule on this amendment because it has never been successfully challenged. In a 2008 case, District of Columbia v. Heller, the Supreme Court ruled that a handgun ban in Washington DC was unconstitutional. One also has to take this into consideration. The Supreme Court supports your right to own guns. If you want to research this decision further you can start here.

For those who try to debate the spirit of the 2nd Amendment, they are truly no different from people who will try to take Biblical quotes out of context to try to support their immoral decisions. The founders were very clear on the intent of the 2nd Amendment. Let me share a few quick quotes here:

The strongest reason for people to retain the right to keep and bear arms is, as a last resort, to protect themselves against tyranny in government. -Thomas Jefferson

If They Come for Your Guns...

Firearms stand next in importance to the Constitution itself. They are the American people's liberty teeth and keystone under independence ... From the hour the Pilgrims landed, to the present day, events, occurrences, and tendencies prove that to insure peace, security and happiness, the rifle and pistol are equally indispensable ... the very atmosphere of firearms everywhere restrains evil interference – they deserve a place of honor with all that is good. -George Washington

The Constitution shall never be construed...to prevent the people of the United States who are peaceable citizens from keeping their own arms. -Samuel Adams

I could find hundreds of quotes like these. This country was built on the right to bear arms. It was built on the rights of an individual to bear arms, regardless of what his government or neighbor happened to think. This is crystal clear. Ironically the people who voice their opinions against this right have their free speech protected by your guns. Without guns in this country, all other amendments become null and void, simply because "We the People" will lose our power of enforcement.

We need to keep this in mind as our "representatives" try to push gun bans. I don't care if 99% of people are in support of gun bans (which is far from the case), it is a violation of our constitutional rights, plain and simple.

A constitutional republic protects the rights of the individual even when their ideas are very much in the minority. If I were the only person in America who believed in the 2nd Amendment, I would still be within my rights to call upon it. You would all think I was insane and possibly celebrate if I was gunned down, but in the end I would be the only true American among us.

Our framers were very clear on this. If my government comes to take my guns, they are violating one of my constitutional rights that is covered by the 2nd Amendment.

It is not my right, at that point, but my responsibility to respond in the name of liberty. What I am telling you is something that many are trying to soft sell, and many others have tried to avoid putting into print, but I am going to say it. The time for speaking in code is over.

If they come for our guns then it is our constitutional right to put them six feet under. You have the right to kill any representative of this government who tries to tread on your liberty. I am thinking about self-defense and not talking about inciting a revolution. Reread Jefferson's quote. He talks about a "last resort." I am not trying to start a revolt, I am talking about self-defense. If the day for revolution comes, when no peaceful options exist, we may have to talk about that as well. None of us wants to think about that, but please understand that a majority cannot take away your rights as an American citizen. Only you can choose to give up your rights.

Congress could pass gun ban legislation by a 90%+ margin and it just would not matter. I think some people are very unclear on this. This is the reason we have a Supreme Court, and though I do not doubt that the Supreme Court can also become corrupt, in 2008 they got it right. They supported the Constitution. It does not matter what the majority supports because America is not a democracy. A constitutional republic protects the rights of every single citizen, no matter what their "elected servants" say. A majority in America only matters when the Constitution is not in play.

I just wrote what every believer in the Constitution wants to say, and what every constitutional blogger needs to write. The truth of the matter is that this type of speech is viewed as dangerous and radical or subversive, and it could gain me a world of trouble that I do not want. It is also the truth. To make myself clear I will tell you again. If they come for your guns it is your right to use those guns against them and to kill them. You are protected by our Constitution.

Most of the articles I am reading on the subject are trying to give you clues without just coming out and saying it. I understand that because certain things in this country will get you on a list that you don't want to be on. I may well be on that list. This blog is small and growing so I may not be there yet, but I have dreams. I also have my own list of subversives and anyone who attempts to deny my constitutional rights is on that list.

I am not the "subversive" here, it is the political representatives who are threatening to take away my inalienable rights. If they come to take my guns and I leave a few of them wounded or dead, and I somehow survive, I have zero doubt that I will spend a long time in prison and may face an execution. But I would much rather be a political prisoner than a slave.

If I go down fighting then I was not fighting to harm these human beings. I was simply defending my liberty and yours. It is self-defense and it is what our country was built on. We won our freedom in self-defense. We would not be ruled by a tyrannical government in the 1770's and we will not be ruled by a tyrannical government in 2013. There is no difference.

This is a case of right and wrong. As of now the 2nd Amendment stands. It has never been repealed. If Feinstein or Barack have a problem with the Constitution then they should be removed from office. They are not defending the Constitution which they have sworn an oath to protect. It is treasonous to say the least. They would likely say the same about me, but I have the Constitution, the founders, and the supreme court on my side. They only have their inflated egos.

I am not writing this to incite people. I am writing this in hopes that somehow I can make a tiny difference. I have no idea how many of my neighbors have the will to defend their constitutional rights. 2%? 20%? I am afraid that 20% is a high number, unfortunately. When push comes to shove many people may give up and submit to being ruled. I believe that our government is banking on this.

What I do know is that this country was founded by people who had balls the size of Texas and Patriotic Americans take shit off of no one, especially our own government. For evidence of that, you might research the Revolutionary War. My question is how many Patriots are left?

I would hope that our officials come to realize that, regardless of our numbers, we still exist because they are calling Patriotic Americans to action. They are making us decide if we want to die free or submit to their rule. I cannot tell you where you should stand on that. I do know that it may make the difference between living a life of freedom or a life of slavery.

You must start thinking about this because I believe that the day is coming soon and I personally believe it has already been planned. Not all conspiracy theories are hogwash. They may throw down the gauntlet soon and my suggestion is that you prepare yourself to react.

I mean no disrespect to our elected officials but they need to understand that "We the People" will not be disarmed. If they proceed then it is they that are provoking us and we will act accordingly. We are within our rights to do so.

For those who are in support of taking the guns, you need to ask yourself a very important question, and I am not just talking about the politicians, because if you support them, you have chosen your side.

Are you willing to die to take my guns?

2015 Chili Cookoff

by Sharon Theobald

On Saturday, 14 February, CPF&G Club held it's annual Chili Cookoff, and yes, it snowed! It seems that snow and the Cookoff just go together. Turnout was low - forty-one people, including the contestants - but the event was enjoyed by all those who came.

We had seven contestants: Wendy Menard, Dave McCulloch, Cecelia William, Sheldon Potter, Richard Mullen, Kate Ostertag, and Billy Lambert. Warm, warmer, and hot chilis made for a fun evening of chili testing. The big surprise of the evening was two-way ties for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place.

1st Place:
Dave McCulloch
& Rich Mullen

2nd Place:
Cecelia William
(age 12) &

Thanks to all those who participated and joined in the fun and a special thank you to Mike Sorenson, our "House Chili" chef!

Politics & Legislation

by John Faro, Political Junkie

Federal: Senator John Cornyn (R-TX) introduced the Constitutional Concealed Carry Reciprocity Act. This landmark gun rights bill legislates that the right to bear arms be respected in all 50 states. The Supreme Court has already weighed in on this. When the Second Amendment mentions the right to "bear arms," it is referring to individual citizens carrying arms for self-defense. The phrase "bear arms" has no other definition.

This bill would treat concealed firearm licenses like driver's licenses. If you get a driver's license in New Hampshire, for example, you aren't just limited to driving in New Hampshire. You can drive to any other state in the union. You are still required to obey each state's laws, but it is understood that the basics of how to drive are the same in all fifty states.

This is how concealed carry licenses should be as well. The principles of self-defense are the same in New Hampshire as they are in Texas. (Source: Excerpts from Conservative Daily February 13, 2015)

New Hampshire: The state Senate has passed a bill (SB 116) to repeal the license requirement for carrying a concealed handgun. The passage, on a party-line vote, came after a debate on public safety, constitutional rights, and New Hampshire being one of the safest states in the country. The Senate voted 14-9 to pass it.

Senate Majority Leader Jeb Bradley, the prime sponsor of the bill, said it would not change any other state or federal laws. Once this gets through the House, assuming it does, it will have to get past Governor Maggie Hassan's veto pen. (Source: Excerpts from the N.H. Union Leader February 13, 2015)

HB 582: Repealing requirement for license to carry a pistol or revolver concealed. This bill is identical to SB116. This should allow the bill to pass out of committee without delay. There is always the possibility of attempts to amend the bill by anti-gun politicians.

HB 685: Prohibiting a state agency, state employee, or political subdivision from enforcing any federal law regarding a firearm, firearm accessory, or ammunition. This is similar to a bill passed several years ago that said the same thing but during a state of emergency. This bill prohibits this kind of action at any time unless there is a violation of law.

HB 512: Prohibiting confiscation of firearms, ammunition, or firearms accessories during a state of emergency. This bill inserts specific penalty provisions to be applied against a law enforcement officer who confiscates a firearm, firearm accessory, ammunition, or ammunition component during a declared state of emergency. This bill adds consequences for law enforcement officers who ignore the existing law.

All the above bills have the backing of most if not all the firearms groups in the state of New Hampshire. These bills were to be voted on February 19, 2015. Hopefully all will pass out of committee favorably.

HB 650: Requiring background checks for commercial firearms sales. As you all know firearm sales are covered by federal law (NIC's). So why was this bill even filed? Reading the text of the bill reveals that a permanent record of ALL firearm sales in the state of NH is mandated. Does "Backdoor gun registration" sound familiar! We hope this one comes out of committee ITL'ed.
